8. DESCRIPTION AND CHARACTERISTICS OF AREA:
   Terrain: Rolling to steep hillside. Some construction hazards. Land improved 55% out of possible total of 80%. Deed restrictions, if they ever existed, have expired. Zoning permits multiple-family structures. Conveniences all readily available. This area was subdivided some 25 years ago and marketed as a medium priced workingmen's district. It was more or less static for a number of years but has recently experienced renewed activity. Improvements are principally modest single-family dwellings, but there are a number of small apartment houses, bungalow courts and multi-family dwellings largely along Echo Park Ave. The mixture of old and new construction causes a wide range in age and architectural types and gives the district a heterogeneous aspect. While maintenance is of fair quality, obsolescence is nevertheless quite noticeable. Population is largely native-born Russians of American parentage with but little probability of subversive infiltration. Recent new construction has been of substantial amount and distinctly better quality and design, and indicates an upward trend; and, for this reason, the area is accorded a "low yellow" grade.
