20. Summarize the interview with the officer contacted:

Mr. Burnham had just returned from a visit to the Home office of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company. This company is very anxious to place money in San Diego, but due to the competition of the Federal Savings and Loan associations, banks and the Federal Housing Administration, Mr. Burnham doubts that he will be able to get the Insurance Company much business.

He said that there were two or three saving and loan associations in San Diego that were owned or controlled by men in the building material business. These men, as far as he knows, are honest businessmen, but he feels that making construction loans with the requirement that the borrowers buy lumber from a given lumber company is not a good policy.

Mr. Burnham has just recently become correspondent for the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company, which company is also anxious to get into the loaning field in San Diego. He has made but one loan thus far for this company.
